PROGRAMS

Community Based Family Services

- Stanford Sierra Youth & Families collaborates with El Dorado County Behavioral Health to increase access to mental and behavioral health services for families with youth (ages 0-21) who are struggling at home, school, or in the community. The program partners with youth and their families to assess and determine an individualized plan for services and supports that focuses on family strengths and the overall emotional and mental well-being of the youth and family.

Peer Partner Services

- Stanford Sierra Youth & Families collaborates with Child Welfare to provide Parent Partner and Youth Advocate Services for families involved in the Child Welfare System. The program's goals are to engage both youth and parents more fully in the child welfare case planning and services process; provide information to help them navigate the child welfare system and understand their rights and responsibilities; and provide support, modeling, and linkages to assist families in meeting their safety, permanency, and well-being goals. The program helps empower youth and families and ensure they have voice and choice in service delivery.

Prevention Wraparound

- This program is an early intervention program that utilizes a strength-based, needs-driven, family-centered and community-based planning process for youth and families who are at risk of involvement with or involved in the child welfare system and/or juvenile justice programs. The treatment team utilizes a High Fidelity Wraparound model to support towards permanency, safety, and building connections to support beyond services.
