Stanford Youth Solutions' Flexible Integrated Treatment (FIT) program provides individualized mental health services to eligible youth. Using the FIT Core Practice Model and a wide array of evidence-based practice techniques that utilize family and individual strengths to build support. The program is flexible to accommodate client’s preference in location, frequency, duration, and intensity of services.